Hello, my name is Kevin, I am 26 and my question is “are you a stressed person?”.

It is a hard question to answer, my work is hard and I always stay late at the office. I also drink a lot of coffee during the day and go to sleep very late. Sometimes I don't have time to read a book or watch TV, because I have to work on my work projects at home.

We all experience stress and anxiety at one time or another. For some, it may be more severe than others, but one thing is for sure: we can all agree that a stress-free life is a happy one. If you are fed up with your stress and anxiety, you may be wondering how to reduce stress. The good news is there are plenty of stress reducers that you can incorporate into your life to help you.

Stress triggers are usually repetitive. If you're dealing with stress and anxiety, you may find that the same things each month cause you unneeded stress. Some examples include overdue bills, work deadlines, or an increasing pile of ignored housework or maintenance.

For me it was that I have always had issues setting aside time to do housework or laundry, so now I set aside one day of each week to take care of these duties. For example, I do all the laundry on Sundays and clean the house on Mondays. A friendly suggestion: be sure not to pile too much work onto one day, or you could risk becoming even more stressed from the amount of work you have to do that day.

What is more important, anyone dealing with anxiety or stress should set some time aside each day to focus on themselves.

This can be as simple as taking 5 minutes each day to sit quietly and reflect, or it can be more complex. Some enjoy taking a warm

What do you usually do, when you have free time? Do you have a lot of free time during the week?

Speak for 2-3 minutes

Here are photos from your photo album, choose one photo to describe to your friend:

Speak for 2-3 minutes, in your talk remember to speak about:

- Where and when the photo was taken
- What / who is in the photo
- What is happening
- Why you keep the photo in your album
- What is so special about this photo? What emotions does it bring to you?
